Who 30 THE

HE. 110.0 33

SECRET HISTORY

OF THE

Calves Head Club,

OR, THE

REPUBLICAN UNMASQU'D:

Wherein is fully shewn
The Religion of the CALVES-HEAD Heroes,
In their Anniversary Thanksgiving Songs on the Thirity of January, by them called ANTHEMS;

For the Years 1693, 1694, 1695, 1696, 1697.

NOW PUBLISHED;

To demonstrate the Restless, Implacable Spirit of a certain Party still among us, who are never to be satisfied till the present Establishment in Church and State is Subverted.

Discite justitiam moniti, & non temnere Divos.

Virg.

DUBLIN, Reprinted in the Year, 1705.

Price, 6d.

SECRET HISTORY

Caluca Diau Club.

MADIONI

Thirty of the CALVES-HEAD Heroes, the called

For the Years 1693, 1694, 1695, 1696, 1697.

To design the test was as implied his Spirit of the length of the prefer i liabhilament in Church and the subverted.

schools acountes town and Comme consister - 2 1949

DUBLEW, Reprinced in the Kear, 1705.

केलिल, हा.

THE

PREFACE

THE following Collection basheen so industriously handed up and down, where it was thought it would be well received, and confirm those Principles which too many have unhappily sucked in, and raise the Considence of those who were thought too bashful by their Party, that some honest Men have thought there could be no more Effectual Remedy for the Mischief it might do, or any surer wayto stop the Career, than a Publication. For the many may presume, surer wayto stop the Career, than a Publication. For the many may presume, that under the disguise of Mirth, and the Protection of a Free Conversation they might safely venture to make an Experiment how far the Poison would more they might safely venture to make an Experiment how far the Poison would more the Undeserning of untry'd Constitutions, especially when Rhime and Musical word the Word; yet it is believed, when the Malignity of the Draught is Publickly discover'd, sew will venture upon it without a sufficient Antidote; and sewer have the Hardiness to Administre it.

These Lines (for such Ribbaldry and Trash deserve not the Name of Poami) were composed and set to Musick for the use of the Calves-Bead Club, which was erected by an Impudent Sett of People, who have their Feast of Calves-Beads in several Parts of the Town, on the 30th of January, in Derision of the Day, and Desiance of Monarchy; at divers of which Meetings, the following Compastions were sung, and in Affront to the Church called Anthems. These which are here Published, are said to have been Written by Mr. Benj. Bridgewater, and that he was largely reworded by the Members of the Club for his Pains. Whether Mr. Stevens was so well gratify d for his Sermons to the same Tune, and on the same Days, is more then the Publisher dares say, but perhaps the Pulpit was a Bar to his Pretentions, and the Poet had been better rewarded than the Preacher, had his Sarmons been put into Rhime, However, it is boped, that shis Publication may give a Check to the Boil of the Example, and destroy the Continuance of the Practice, or at least give fair Warning, and take away the Pretence of Surprize from those who shall praced to insult the Government in so Saucy and so Villainous a Manner.

But whatever the Success may be, the Publisher doubts not but his intentions are justify'd, and wishes the Effect may demonstrate the Reasonableness of them, by putting an End to so Outhristian and Scandalous a Practice,

THE

PREFACE

The state of the angle of well-end to industrically bracked up and down, where it was thought to would be well-received, and confidence of the principles which too may be down unbapping sucked in, and raise the Confidence of their who were thought too bases to the transfer that some home. Men have there it were thought to might do, or any taken each of the men more instituted the might do, or any surely weath from the thickness of the might do, or any that makes the district of the the course may prosume that makes the district of the control of the control of the the control of the c

Truce Lines (for toch ilethialdry and Irage deleter not the Vame of Porms) were connected and he to Banjak for the ine of the Latings Head (Line), which was governal Express the Town, on the 30th of January, in Derikon of the Day and recases of Monweby, at divers a which Mackings, the following Composition was nevertage, and in Aspant to the Courch call Anthrons. These which are were reached, and former been Written by Mr. Benjam Brings or the was a largely remarded by the Manbers of the Chair for his Paint Whather the Stevens was so well gratify a for his Bernous to the June June Whather the Lines for the Remarks of which his permans to the Paint Whather the forms, is more then the Poot had been better remarked that Enthisher as for the his Presentions, and the Poot had been better remarked that

However, is a hoped, this this Publication way give a Coch to the Keil of the Angles Andrewer, is a hoped this this Publication was leading and address the Continues of the Prairies from those who finall proceed to inface the Continues in so Sancy and so tellacinous a Manner.

The measurer the Successionar be, the Pablisher doubts must bus Tis lecentions or is figuresing as in its first rear dominaterate the Reasonableness of these, business are fined as first at the colors and Conductions are received.

infragional files are best december in the political with more what ### of the sur, who was in fund, the bod and most in Parise of his ### relies medice of his Advertaries, even tilet incom da ud min mont degbuilde

wit motive of notice out to Rick Ditta Raid and that heel as hald

second and along the weet no soore capable of surving to excellent a Place,

When Erected, and where Kept, &commis

IS a prodicious thing to confider, fand for the Honour of my Native Country, I wish I cou'd say it was a falle imputation upon her) that the execrables Regicide of King Charles the First, shou'd find any

Advocates or Abettors fill among us again as mon's and a state of the I fay 'tis prodigious, that after the whole Nation, by their Representatives in Parliament assembled, has Enacted so solemn a detestation of this unnatural Parricide, and appointed a Daylof Humiliation for it, to continue to all Ages of the World, there should be fuch a fet of Bousefews yet remaining, for impudently audacious, as to justifie a Crime for which the Three Kingdoms have smarted so severely; and in their wicked merriment, to act over, as much as in them lies, that Tragical Scene, which has justly made us infa-

Was it not enough that a Powerful Prince, allied to most of the Crown'd Heads in Christendom, was despoiled of that just Authority, wherewith the Laws of God and Man had invested him, and lastly of his Life, but that he must be most barbarously persecuted atter his Death, and suffer those indignities in his Memory when dead, which he had so plentifully suffer'd in his Person when living?

Willering.

There is a time when the most implacable malice is satiated, and exerts it felt no longer. The most savage Nations seldom or never carried their refentments beyond the Grave; and thought it a piece of barbarous Cowardice, to infult upon the Ashes of those that cou'd not speak for themselves.

But the Royal Martyr has been treated, if 'tis possible, with more inhumanity after his defoliation, than he was expoled to when under the power of his Rebellious Subjects. He is not only been fligmatiz'd by the odious name of Tyrant, who was in truth the best and most merciful Father of his Country, and loaded with a Thousand undeserv'd Calumnies; but what thows the restless malice of his Adversaries, even that incomparable Book of Devotion, compos'd by him in his Solitude and the time of his deepen Afflictions, and which no Pen but his own could have written, has been adjudged from him by a * late mercenary Author; although 'tis certain, to any Man at least that can distinguish Stiles that the Person, to whom the Republicans ascribe it was no more capable of writing so excellent a Piece, then the aforesaid Compiler of Milton's Life, of Writing an Orthodox System of the Mysteries of Christian

Thus as he was torn from his Queen and Children in his Lite, he was Robb'd, as far as it lay in the power of his malicious Enemies, even of the legitimate iffue of his Brain: Tho as Truth, but especially Fruth injuriously oppress'd, never wants some generous hands to defend its Cause; so all the Arguments that have been used by the Republicans, to prove it a spurious piece, thath been fully answer d by a worthy. Divine now living beyond all possibility of a Reply.

The Barbarity of his Enemies flopt not here; for not content to have Affastimated his Perion and Reputation, they even disposed them of his Sepulchre (a piece of Crulty, which none but thoron-pac'd Villians ever executed) for when the Long of Parliament had Voted an Honourable Interment for their late Prince, who had suffer d to unjustly, all was stopt, by reason that the Persons order'd to regulate the Ceremony, when they came to examine the Royal Cossin, found the Body missing.

This puts me in mind of what a worthy Gentleman, who Travell'd with my Lord A- into Italy, told me iome years ago, viz. that during his mort flay at Bearn in Switzerland, a Syndic of the Town, who used frequently to visit Major General Ludlow, when he lived in those Parts, affared him, that he had often heard Ludlow, in a vaunting manner, ufirm, That the Ireton and Cromwell were burried under Tyburn, yet "twas a comfort to him, that the Royal Martyr kept them company; for fays he, forefeeing that his Son would undoubtedly come in, we took care that his Father's Body hand not be Idolatroully worthipped by the Garollers; and therefore privately removed it to the place of Common Execution.

* See Toland's Life of Manne. fo

CC

to

to

Co VO Cê th

CO

CF N

C

OD Cel

no of

in Pr

CŁ

bu

Preface to the Kings Tryal.

Whether the Matter of Fact, as Ludlow related it, be true or falle, 'tis not material here to enquire, the' I think nothing can give any honest Man a juster and greater Aversion to the Libertines of that Party, than to observe that their Mulice has no bounds, and that it neither spaces the Dead nor the Living.

But of all the Indignities offer'd to the Manes of this injur'd Prince, no-

Calbes Brad Club.

For my part, I was of Opinion at First, that the Story was purely contrived on purpose to render the Republicans more odious than they deserved; for I cou'd not imagine how any Men that pretended to be Christians, or call'd themselves Englishmen, cou'd calmly, and sedately Applaud an Action, condemn'd not only by the Word of GOD, but by the Laws of the Land, to which they pretend to pay fo great a Difference.

As for the Regicides, who were actually concern'd in this excerable Tragedy, this may be faid however in Favour of them (if I may be allow'd for to express my self towards Criminals of that Magnitude) that having gone so far in their Wickedness, and given His Majesty such insupportable Provocations, and, what is more, measuring his Clemency by their own, they concluded he could never forgive them; and therefore like Catiline, found themselves under the Necessity of committing greater Crimes, in order to cover themselves from what was past.

But what can be offer a to extenuate the Crime of these Atheistical Miscreants, who make That a Matter of their Lewd Mirth, which the whole Nation, has in the most Solemn Manner, ever fince lamented, and over their Cups applauded the most wicked Action which the Sun ever beheld.

For this Reason my good Nature made me look upon it as a Fiction upon the Party, till happening in the late Reign, to be in the Company of a certain active Whigg, who in all other respects, was a Man of Probity enough; he assured me, that to his Knowledge 'twas true, that he knew most of the Members of that Club, and that he had been often invited to their Meetings, but that he had always avoided them: Adding, that according to the Principles he was bred up in, he wou'd have made no scruple to have met Charles the First, in the Field, and oppos'd him to the outmost of his Power; but that since he was Dead, he had no further Quarrel to him, and looked upon it as a cowardly piece of Villany, below any Man of Honour, to insult upon the Memory of a Prince, who had suffer'd enough in his Life time.

He farther told me, that Milton, and some other Creatures of the Commonwealth, had instituted this Club, as he was informed, in Opposition to Bp. Juxon, Dr. Sanderson, Dr. Hammond, and other Divines of the Church of England, who meet privately every 30th of January; and, tho it was under the time of the Usurpation, had compil'd a private Form of Service for the day, not much different from what we now find in the Liturgy.

That after the Restauration, the Eyes of the Government being upon the whole Party, they were obliged to meet with a great deal of Precaution; but now fays he, (and this was the Second Year of King William's Reign)

they meet almost in a Publick manner, and apprehend nothing.

By another Gentleman, who, about Eight Years ago, went out of meer-Curiofity to fee their Club, and has fince furnished me with the following Papers, I was informed, that it was kept in no fix'd House, but that they remov'd as they saw convenient, that the Place they met in when he was with 'em, was in a blind Alley, about Morefields; that the Company wholly confifted of Independants and Anabaptists (I am glad for the Honour of the Presbyterians to fet down this Remark) that the Famous Jerry White, formerly Chaplain to Oliver Cromwell, who no doubt ont came to fantify with his Pious Exhortions, the Ribbaldry of the Day; faid Grace; after the Table-Cloath was removed, the Anniversay Anthem, as they implously call'd it, was fung, and a Calves-Scull fill'd with Wine or other Liquor, and then a Brimmer went about to the Pious Memory of those worthy Patriots that had kill'd the Tyrant, and deliver'd their Country from his Arbitary Sway; and lastly, a Collection made for the Mercenary Scribler, to which every Man contributed according to his Zeal for the Cause, or the Ability of his Purse.

I have taken care to fet down what the Gentleman told me, as faithfully as my Memory wou'd give me leave, and I am perswaded that some Persons that frequent the Black-Boy in Newgate-Greet, as they knew the Author of of the following Lines, to they know this Account of the Calves-Head Club nor this Academ in good Islanic made merical property as a sure of ot Now I will appeal to any unprejudiced Englishman, whether such shameful Assemblies ought not to be suppress with outmost Diligence.

Let us consider them either in Relation to the Christian Religion we profess, or to common Humanity and good Manners, or lastly, to the Laws of the Land, and they affront all equally shows as average berief and and and

Therefore I hope the Magistrates, and others whom it Concerns will take Care, especially now since they have the Countenance of the Government, to prohibit, as far as in them lies, and detect these wicked Meetings, that the Persons there Assembling, may be punished as they deserve of a

Tho' no Man abominates Perfecution more than my Self, yet I will ven ture to fay, that a Sett, of People, who with the Subversion of our Ecclesialrical and Civil Establishment (as appears by the following Papers) ought to ### Anniver fary Anthem, 1693. Holl straffe .

Rut Power and Wealth's the My the price lonce. Nce more my Muse, resume thy chearful Lire, 17 8 ollogA .... Let this Days Acts Eternal thoughts inspire: Let every smiling Glass with Mirth be Crown'd, and and the line and the While Healths to England's Native Rights go round.

One juch another Day as this alone, a soul wo but shand roomle all Wou'd fully for a Nation's Sins attone: 11 Should of avol wed abbs daid Vi

15

n;

êr)

rs.

d

n.

ed y_

ly

nis e-

it,

a

ad

nd

an fe.

lly

ms

of 116

CL

we

ŵs

ng5,

enafto

In.

nod W

Tis a fure Symptom that the People's bleft, and of amonol went of any

When once a Haughty Tyrant's dispossest, as made buts and winds and Chor. Apollo's pleas'd, and all the Tuneful Nine, Will of orolly Rejoyce, and in the Solemn Chorus join! and to nothern that and all but Chor. Anollo's pleas'd, Sec.

Again my Muse, immortal Brutus sing, Whole daring Sword expell'd a Tyrant King: Then bravely fought, and bravely overcame, To give Rome Freedom and Eternal Fame. Such Force has Liberty, such conquering Charms, That the whole World Submitted to their Arms. What Wreaths shall we prepare, and how Rehearse His lasting Worth in Everlasting Verse? Chor. Apollo's pleas'd, &c. stoppil and bulling Ha saw know aski

Triumphant Laurels to must Crown that Head, Whose Righteous Hand struck England's Tyrant Dead: The Heroes too, adorn'd with Blood and Sweat, Who forc'd th' opposing Monster to Retreat. Bearing and and and Heaven still before a leading Angel fent; They Conquer'd, 'cause they on his Errand Went: muoranta and and the Tank Like the Israelites of old, their Chains they broke, Guided by Pillars, both of Fire and Smoke. Chor. Appollo's pleas'd, &c.

While Browns re olve to give I as Tis Force must pull a lawless Tyrant down in the law and but a rest of the But give Men knowledge, and the Priest's undone: When once the the lurking Poison is descry'd. His Juggling Tricks are all in vain apply'd. In vain he Whines, in vain he Cants and Prays,
There's not a Man believes one word he fays:

And applace the ful

"Tis true, Religion is the Grand pretence;
But Power and Wealth's the Mythologick sence.
Chor. Apollo's pleas'd, &c,

Then fill the longing Glass with sprightly Wine, Our Cause is Justice, and the Health's Divine. The Heroes Smile, and our Delights approve, Which adds new Joys to those they find above: 'Twas so they Honour, so they Conquest sought, Thus fairly Drank, and then as fairly Fought. They love to see us thus our Homage pay, And bless the Just occasion of the Day.

Chor. Apollo's pleas'd, &c.

Anniver fary * Anthem, 1694

THE Storm is blown over, the Tempest is past,
The Tyrant is fallen, and is Conquer'd at last.
Our Fathers resolv'd it, and bravely 'twas done,
To save the whole Kingdom by Lopping the Crown.
By her Looks we discover'd the Nation was pleas'd,
Her Fears were all vanish'd, her Troubles were eas'd,
Whilst we Yearly commend an Attempt so Divine,
And applaud the Just Action with Calves-Head and Wine.
Chor.

Thus Rome when She suffer'd by Seven "lewd Kings,
That Shackled Her Freedom, and Pinion'd Her Wings,
Long time she set mournful, as England had done.
And bow'd to the Wieght of a Tyranous Throne,
Till urg'd with new Griess, She for Liberty cry'd,
And Liberty Round the glad Eccho reply'd;
Whilst Brutus resolv'd to give Tarquin his Doom,
And offer a King to the Wellfare of Rome.
Chor.

*These two Lines are almost verbatim stolen out of a Gopy of Verses in the Stole Collection, Vol. 1.

* This seems to be a Paredie of a Song in the Innocent Adultery; call'd the Danger is over.

* Our Author was an admirable Historian, I find. This Episte of Lewd; can see none of em bus Tarquin; but all Kings are alike Criminal; i. e. they are Kings.

When

When by the Tyrant's endeavours the People are press, and the Let this Noble Example inspire every Breast, With the same Resolutions to defend the Good Cause; The Subjects Just Rights, their Religion and Laws. Then fill the Calves Cranium to a Health so Divine, The Cause, the Old Cause shall ennoble our Wine; Charge briskly around, fill it up. fill it full, 'Tis the Last and Best Service of a Tyrannick Scull."

Then Boys let's drink a Bumper, fince their Actions made us great, Let us lay our Trophies at their Feet: The Cause gave courage to the Soldiers, taught them how their Foes to beat, That alone cou'd free a Captiv'd State.

Then to Puss Boys, to Puss Boys,
Let's drink it off thus Boys,
As our Fathers did, and the World shall us adore;
It's happier to dye Boys,
Than in Slavery to lye Boys;
Thus the Heroes chose it, and bravely died before.

Anniversary Anthem, 1695.

WHat the Devil means all this pother
On this Day more than another?
See! the Sot to Church reels out,
See! the Leacher leaves his Whore;
The Rogues, that never pray'd before,
Are grown most plaguily Devout.

Prethee Parson, why those Faces,
Pious Frown and Damn'd Gramaces?
Why so many Creeds and * Masses,
Collects, Lessons, and the rest
Of the Holy Garbidge drest,
Proper Food for mumbling Asses?

* The usual name that these impudent Sons of Belial bestow upon our Holy Liturgy.

of the literal series and see its need

Oh! Sir it's a Debt, they fay, sar altervisions a harm I saled as the Mother Church must Yearly pay hand to be since the second and the I To her Saints Canonization: With the fame We country defend the to It was the Day in which he fell A Martyr to the " Caufe of Hell, Juftly Crown'd with Decollation.

The second of the seconds of the second as the first as t Mirth for us, and generous Wine, I also sales and a land and a land and a land Let the Clergy Cant and Whine, Preach and prate about Rebellion. No more Beafts of K - s, good Heaven ! Such as late in Wrath were given, Two Curft Tyrants, and a Stallion.

May the Banish'd Tarquin's Fate, Be as Just, but not so Great; Some mean shameful Death attend him May Curs'd Lewis for Old Scores, Turn him poorly out of Doors; Then may fome friendly Halter end him:

An Anthem on the goth of January, 1696:

THere was a King of Scottish Race, a Man of Muckle might a. Was never feen in Battles Great, but greatly he would Sh-This K. begot another K. which made the Nation and a: Was of the same Religion, an Atheist like his Dad a This Monarch wore a picked Beard, and teem'd a Doughty Here, As Dioclesian Innocent, and Merciful as Ners. The Churches darling Implement, but Scourge of all the People, He Swore he'd make each Mother's Son Adore their Idol Steeple; But they perceiving his defigns, grew plagy thy and jealous And timely chopt his Calve's-Head off, and fent him to his fellows? Old * Rowly did succeed his Dad. such a King was never seen a, * See what Virtuous Principles these presended Saints are of ! That call the King's Heroich Sufferings for the the Laws of the Land, the Liberties of the People, the Configutions of Parlia. ments, and the Established Church, Falling for the Caule of Hell. Oh! Excreable Monsters.

A most admirable Prayer! Tis vasie to Nic-name'em Beafts; and there's an end of them all. * A very fine Charafter this of a merciful Prince, who restor's us to our ancient Government and Liberties: But this shews the Grasitude of this Ruftion.

He'd lye with every nafty Drab, but feldom with his Queen a.

Reffless and hot he roul'd about the Town from Whore to Whore a.

A Merry Monarch as e'er liv'd, yet scandalous and Poor a.

His Dogs at Council-Board wou'd sit, like Judges in their Furs a,

'Twas hard to say which had most Wit, the Monarch or his Curs a.'

At last he died, we know not how, but most think by his Brother,

His Soul to Royal Tophet went to see his Dad and Mother.

The furious James Usurp'd the Throne to pull Religion down a.;

But by his Wise and Priest undone, he quickly lost his Crown a.

To France the wand'ring Monarch's trudg'd, in hopes to find relief a.,

Which he is like to have from thence, even when the D--'s blind a.

Oh! how shou'd we rejoyce and Pray, and never cease to Sing a,

It * Bishops too were chac'd away, and Banish'd with their King a:

Then Peace and Plenty wou'd easue, our Bellies wou'd be full a,

The enliven'd Isle wou'd Laugh and Smile, as in the days of * Noll a.

An Anthem on the 30th of January, 1697.

Touch, now touch the Tuneful Lyre,
Make the joyful Strings resound;
The Victory's at last entire,
With the Royal Victim Crown'd.

The happy Stroke did foon recover,
What we long had fought in vain,
Thus Ariadne lost her Lover,
But the Gods relieved her Bain.

'Twas an Action just and daring, Nature smil'd at what they did, When our Fathers nothing fearing, Made the Haughty Tyrant Bleed.

* The Reader is defined to observe how inconfisent these Libertines at to themselves, who concelebrate the Bloody and calamitious Reign of an Usurper, who trampled upon that very Republick, of which they boatt so much.

HOLANDR COLLONS

Pages and Gods a me tile

Thus we find that the Subversion of the Monarchy is not the only thing this Party aims at but likewise that of the Hierarchy, which must expire both together: So that the some Writers in the Reign thought sit to ridicule that saying, of No King no Bishop, at abserd and in Consequential, yet our Pathers lived to see it verified; and I bearrily wish their Posterities may never see the Experiment made the second time.

They their Sons thus well obliging,

Taught us how this Day to keep,

Who by Fighting, Storming, Sieging,

Laid the Ravening Wolf afleep.

England long her wrongs sustaining,
Prest beneath her burdens down,
Chose a set of Heroes Daring,
To Chastise the Haughty Crown.

Thus the Romans, whose beginning

From an equal Right did Spring,

Abhorring Romulus his finning,

To the Gods transferr'd their King.

Let the * Black Guard rail no further,
Nor Blaspheme the Righteous Blow;
Nor miscall that Justice Murther,
Which made Saint and Martyr too.

They and We this Day observing, Differ only in one thing, They are Canting, Whining, Starving, We Rejoycing, Drink and Sing.

Advance the Emblem of the Action!
Fill the CALVE's SCULL full of Wine,
Drinking ne'er was Counted Faction;
+ Men and Gods adore the Wine.

To the Heroes gone before us, Let's renew the flowing Bowl, Whilst the Lustre of their Glories, Shine like Stars from Pole to Pole.

When our Edward well agreem has the male there of the this seek

ethe Haughly Trant Bl

the bearing the the Level for the test

‡ Admirable Doffrine in the Mouths of Hypocrites, that pretend to fo much Sanftity.

* What Religion these Incendiaries are of appears by their giving the Loyal and Orthodox Sons of the best established Church in the World, such ignominious nick-names.

rad-Club, Complt.

OR, THE

Republican Unmask'd.

Wherein is fully shewn.

Religion of the Calver-Head-Heroes, in their Anniversary Chankfeiving Songs on the Thirtieth of January, by them alled ANTHEMS; for the Years 1693, 1694, 1695, miles, implacable the present Establishment of Europe and State is subver-with large Additions, Corrected.

f To which is annext, Vindication of the Royal Martyr King CHARLES 1. Wherein are laid open, e Republicant Mysteries of Rebellion, the Time of the Ufurpation, by the Celebrated Author of Hudebras.

haracter of a Presbuerian; Written by Sir John I

BLIN: Reprinced in the Year, 1705.

Calver Head-Cine. Comple.

Nepublican Unmask d.

A series of the grant on the series, because in conversable to the configuration of the state of the stat

With the Charman of a Charman of the Charman of the La reservation of the state of the state of

To the Grave and Worshipful

JOHN TUTCHIN Efq; OBSERVATOR,

AND

Censor Morum General:

Supervisor of the Admiralty, Victualling-Office, Play-house, Bartholomem-Fair, Bear-Garden, Desender of Parliaments, and Protestant March Beer, &c.

May it please your Worship,

CTO U fee I address my felf to You in the submissive and dutiful

Language of Your own Country-man.

There ought to be fomewhat of Propriety between the Profest made, and the Person for whom 'tis intended : Now the Olivers, the Iritons, the Hewlons, and the generality of that Gurfed Crue, are (Thanks be to the Heavens ) some Years since dead and rotten, and only surviving in the black Annals of Rebellion, or the blacker Memories and Principles of their accurred Disciples; I was at first hesitating whether this Piece might not be fuitably addressed to our Reverend and neverto-be-forgotten the Salamanea Doctor : But my ferious Cogitations were interrupted by News, News, great and wonderous News, London Gazette, Post-man, Daily Courant and Observator. In the humble retirement of a folitary and distant Village, any thing goes on with us: but the word Observator surprised me to the last Degree. Sir Roger, 1. knew, had lay'd down the Cudgels long ago, and what Genious cou'd or durst undertake it now, after Dr. Wellwood's doing Penance at the Bay : of the Honfe, was my Amazement : I did You the Justice Sir, that was due to Your Paper; that is, in one Word, I perus'd it, and dispised it.

but :

but did not repent my Purchase; for it gave me a great insight into the Tempers of some People, who under the Cloak of Refermation, find sault with every Man, Woman, and Child that is not of their Party, and wou'd slyly insinuate to the World, that every uncommon Disposition of the Heavens, is a Maledistion and Judgment upon the Land, because the best regulated Communion in the Universe, will not betray its Rights, and be partakers of their Hypocrisy. These are those Pious Creatures that make a wry Face at a Poppit Show, yet can Justify cutting of Throats; that think a Play House prophane, and vindicate Regicides; that are for introducing new Methods in sinning, and by a piece of ill Husbandry, must needs make two Vices one, and tack their Hypocrisy to their other Iniquities: Such Impositions are Intollerable, and the more so, because the Obstinacy of these, Wou'd be Saints, is invincible.

We cannot but remark how the Leaven of the Pharifees has spread its Contagion thro' all your Papers! With what Two-handed, as well as Two-edg'd Weapons you make your Attacks! How you take as many Opportunities of abusing your Gracious and Lawful Sovereign as praising Her! Your nauseous unhallowed Incense is more unsufferable, than that pretended Folly and Weakness you continually bespatter her Ministers with. If you continue to give your self such Airs, you may in sometime come to an unhappy awe, tho' Very merited Dilemma, and find your self at last reduc'd to the Infamous necessity of Petitioning to be Hang'd. We are not without a living instance of one in such Circumstances; and who sound his Villanies so detestable; that to make him carry the Weight of them still about him, even such a Request was deny'd.

less suspect their Practices. Religion has been the continual Plea for all sorts of Parties, and Factions, and not only in the careless Ages; but even now, Godliness a great Gain to some sort of Folks. Now the above-mention'd Grimaces, do but make a Mock-War against the Devil, and employ their mercenary Emisaries to fin with Strangers, that they may more silly betray them afterwards; so that you first Pervert, and then as unreasonably Punish. Now, wou'd you advise your Countryman to drub the Jackets of these Fellows with his Oaken Cudgel, it wou'd not be amis.

Several Abuses you have deservedly taken notice of, you see I am for giving the Devil his due; and have so far been serviceable to the Government, as it was highly necessary such Irregularities in Publick Offices mould be known, in order to bring the Delinquents to Condign Punish. ment. Hitherto your Pen shall meet with all possible Acknowledgment; but where Deformation is only intended, tho' Reformation is the Word, no honest Man will approve of the Management.

Publickly to make Shew of Zeal and Piety, and what not, a grave Cans of florid Words, tho' it amuses the unthinking, yet we alas see thro' the Varnish, and find all is not Gold that glisters : For to Encourage, nay, even to connive at a CALVES-HEAD-CLUB, runs formich counter to fuch fair Pretences, that they are as irreconcilable as Light and Darkneis : This Publick Scandal to Morality and Monarchy, shews so invererate and implacable an Aversion to Crown'd Heads, that cannot but give us as just an Odium for them that celebrate it, as these horrid Villains that perpetrated it.

Here your Pen had met with a fuitable Topic for your Satyr and Indignation ; And as you are very well acquainted with their Practices, fo your continued Silence upon that Execuble Theme, does more than convince us, that you approve of it, and are Secretary to the Abominable Society of King-Killers. What confirms us in this Opinion, your Worthip some years ago wrote a Copy of Verses upon the Burning Whitehall, wherein you were pleased to observe the great Justice of Providence in the fuffering the lude and finful Part of that Palace where K. C. the II. enjoy'd his Concubines, to be burnt down to the Ground, but referv'd that Noble Pile, Anglice, The Banqueting-House, from whence an Arbitrary Tyrant, meaning K.C. the I. was led to the Block to be a perpetual Speciacle to all Ages. On this Account, it was thought convenient to Dedicate this Piese to you, that if it were possible you could be ignorant of it, you might have no further an Excuse for not informing your Country-man of fuch Inhuman and Diabolical Practices; and in that you will hew Year Queen how great and just a Veneration you have for Her in the Care you take of Vindicating Her August, the un-Republicant And Monte to all Reafon; and Bersdon Strade Shares , reagant to all fruits, and Deaf to all Reafon; and Bersdon Strade To Curically Down to the particular form of the conference of tion to his own partial set of the with as much violence as a rithwomean

Scolds; and the Wife-men of Gotham might as, well have hedge dain

at annie William Philanaza moult be known, in order to bring the Designance to Contine Lunial ment, filthering voil Pen thall need with all possible Actnowledge ment; but will all the mayon it only intended, the Reference is the

Can of flerid Words, the it a H T nathier

Publicate to make shew of Zent and Plans

CHARACTER

cannot but gire us as init an OAim To Onen tost cellbrar

Calves-Head-Clubb-Man.

E is the spawn of a Regicide, Hammer'd out of a Rank Anabaptist Hipocrite; his Father was enabled to beget him by the Fat of Sequestred Lands, upon a Bed ftolen from an Honest Cavalier. His Villanous Principles he imbib'd in his Mothers Womb, Nourish'd them, when born, with her infectious Milk, and is an incorrigible Rebel byinftinct of Nature; improved into an Incarnate Devil, by the early infusions of his Nucle, which were Ripen'd to Maturity by a Malicious Education. He is harden'd in his Hatred to Kings and Bilhops, beyond the influence of Grace, or Check of Conscience; and thinks nothing can be a more Meritorious Act, than to Sacrifice either to the Fury of a Mad Rabble, who, when they have but Liberty and Property in their Mouths. always let loofe the Devil in their Hearts, and believe the very Name of Protestant Religion gives a Sanction to their Villanies. He is a Republican Monster, so full of passion and prejudice, that he is Blind to all Truth, and Deaf to all Reason; and is so Gursedly Obstinate in the Justification of his own Errours, that it is as easie a matter for a Man to take an Elephant by the Snout, and throw him o'er his Back as a Fox does a Goofe, as it is to convince him of any started opposition to his own partial Sentiments. When he talks about Religion or Government, it is generally with as much violence as a Fishwoman Scolds; and the Wife-men of Gotham might as well have hedg'd in their Cukkem, as alman confine him within the bounds of Good Manners, when he disputes his Principles he is as Hot as Pepper, as biting as Mustard. Mustard, and as sower as Vinegar. He always talks as impudently of Great Men, as if they were his Fellows; and Snuffs up his Nose at the Name of a King, as if the very Title It felt was grown offentive to his Noftrils. He cannot fpeak with respect towards our Government, but a Commonwealth; and if you do but fay one Word in the behalf of the Court or its Favourites, in his Company, he would with more patience hear you speak twice as much in the praise of the Devil; for it is a Maxim amongst such Rebels, (vic.) that all Kings are Tyrants, and their Favourites Betrayers of their Country. His chiefelt Recreation is to invent falle Calumnies; and his greatelt indaftry is to spread them when he has done. His lies are always level'd at those worthy Persons who are most difficult to be hit; which is one great reason, why his Malice is so often disappointed. He always accuses his Enemies of his own Evils, and measures out their Corn by the deceitful Bulkel that belongs to his own Party. The male daring Hypocrite of his Affociates is always Cry'd up as the greatest Saint; and the most Virtuous and Pious Enemy to their Wicked Principles, is always Cry'd down as a Highflyer, a Papift, and a Trays tor to his Country. He is an impatient Angler, who thinks it best Eishing in troubled Waters ; and hates Peace and Quietness, as much as a poor Debter does the light of a Bayliff, or a Country Farmer a Wet Harvest. He is so deeply affected with the Memory of his A'ncestor's Villany, that he longs for nothing more than the like opportunity of Brewing his own hands in Royal Punch, that the Son might have the Satisfaction of being full as Wicked as his Father. He has more wild Wrincles in his Head relating to Government, than a Crack Brain'd Mathematician has concerning Perpetual Motion; and has more Ambition in his Breaft, than the most extravagant Tyrant in the Universe. He is very fearful of being made a Slave, but is very defirous of being a Slave-maker; for when-ever he cryes out for Liberty, he is endeavouring to destroy it; and never thinks himself a compleat Freeman, till the Nation that he Lives in, has no Religion to guide him, no Law to Punish him, and no Prince to Govern him; for his chief aim is to pull down all, when the madness of the Common People gives him a fair opportunity. In all conditions, he is as restless as a froward Infant whilst Breeding of his Teeth: will please no Government, and with no Government be pleas'd. He is as Tempestuous as the Ocean, that swells into a Rage with every Gale that happens, and seldom reconciles himself to a Calm, till like that, he has been the occasion of some remarkable mischief.

one that is very swift to Revenge, but very flow to Gratifude ; and like an ill Temper'd Jade, loves to run forward when he is check'd, and to hang an Arfe when he is driven. When Angry, he looks as fullen and as gloomy as a Thunder Cloud, and like that, makes wonderful deal of Noise, when-ever he spits his Venom. He is never better pleas'd than when he has got it in his Power to oppress others, which he certainly makes use of without Mercy; yet no body bears the flightest sufferings with so much Envy and Impatience as him felf, though he knows in his own Confeience, he has juffly deferved his Punishmennt. He is a harsh Man to his Inferiours, and a Haughty Man to his Betters; a fevere Tyrant in Authority, and a Turbulent Incendiary amongst Magistrates when he is out of it. The more his Miscarriages are connived at, the more impudent he grows; And the more Mercy you shew him, the less he will shew you. He is of the nature of a Nettle, the more gently you handle him, the more apt he is to hurt you; but if ever you meddle with him, the best way to secure your felf, is to gripe him hard. He is one that hates all Men, but such who are as Wicked as himself; and loves nothing so well in this World as a Calves-Mead upon the Thirtieth of January; but the next time that he fits down to one in Derifion of the fufferings of the Royal Martyr, I Meartily with that the Devil may Choak him. Amen, vac to ta ell ding to forta vigesti of 219 ceftor's Villary, that he longs for notal good estimated lake opportunity of Browing his own read sin kovaf. Pasch that the Satisfaction of being foll as Wicked as his Fast. He had relating to Government that Wince in his Head relating to Government that a Carlo Brain'd Machematician that constraint Perpetual Monora and that the Universe. He was a slave maker; for whan-wer he syles out for the berry, its is entertyouting to definey it; and new chinks himself a compleant freeman, till the Nation that a Lives is the control of gaile him, no law to I had an an an an an an an and the control of the c him: for the chief aim is to public was of well common People gives him a fair opposite in a serial serial serial for a froward infantament. Heading all a froward infantaments be blooding at a froward infantaments blooding all serial trees a will as Tempessums as the Ocean, that avails into a second every Gale that happens, and faitonies endies all life that he but been the occasion of the second endies and life.

A Continuation of the Calves-head Club.

A) Who bravely went before use A SONG on the 30th of January 97. By a Lad of 16,000 noise a salam o'r

Thus you give us Freedom . . . . . Une the Lute and Lyre, which a visudid bak Touch the Sounding Wire, hip of anog yet Hall? Let our Mearts and Voice, bean algoritant are-man't Create fuch a Noise, .Q As shall match the Celestial Quire. and the 2. conting pollaristid savidants wos Hark ! th' Exalted Heroes, Looking on, looking on, Charm the bright Seraphick Throne, 1891 St. William With Hymns Divine to cheer us. Total in the Cranion full Boys, .

The penfive World around us, Griev'd to fee him wound us, and the add to be all all William

(a) But bleft the Deed ; all harmon mail and orab entw When they saw him Bleed,

Who labour'd to confound us. Reflections on a SONG on the a oth of Lanuary.

The happy British Isle too,

When she saw, when she saw; Began to fing and smile too. The sold line well known that their Barba-

It was a pleasing wonder,
Upon the Earth and under,
The Worms beneath,
Rejoyc'd at his death,

And gladly seiz'd the Plunder.

10 sonstand a sension of the plunder of the priority of the pr Whose Hypocrify's a jest,

Can never be forgiven.

7. Hail

atimulation of the Calves-head Hall Saints Victorious

(d) Who bravely went before us; Who taught us the way and s 100 When Tyrants fway,

To make a Nation Glorious. to make a va

Thus you give us Freedom, And Liberty Liberty Shall by your Methods purchas'd be

When-e're the People need 'em. lov mis a reser to to 1

Greate fuch a Noife, .Q ( e ) The Heroes now in Gloty o out datem list an Bow themfelves before ye, Pleas'd to fee Posterity

186.88 . 89

so saint out to saint on Thus yearly Rehearse their Rory and and and mand

With Phan Divine to cheer uel Then fix the Cranion full Boys, With sparkling Red, with sparkling Red, with the state of the state of

(f) We'le knock the fneaking Puppies dead, Who dare our Mirth controll Boys:

binning of bineds and Reflections on a SONG on the 30th of January.

Clanza the Third. (a) With what Impudence would these Frantick Republican Monfters in finuate, that the whole World, both Approv'd and Applauded their Unparallel'd Villany towards the beft of Princes, when it is well known to all Good Men, that their Barbarity has been detefted by all the Kingdoms and States of Europe, to the Everlasting Shame and Scandal of those Blood-Thirty Hypocrites who Effected their Base Ends, by such a Sanguine piece of Cruelty to Rejoyed at his death, the Mildest of Monarchs.

Stanza the Fourth. (b) Observe how they justing their Bloody Act, perpetrated by Rebellion and open Violence, by a pretence of Law; when their Infamous Proceedings were directly Repugnant to the Laws of God, the Law of Nature, and the Laws of the Land.

Channes of forgiven.

th Exalted Metoes,

When alley taw him bleed,

Stanza the Sixth. ( . ) With what Confidence do they Charge the Loyal Clergy of the Church of England , with that Hypocrify which themselves have ever practis'd, both towards God and Man, to bring their Bafe Defigns to their Abominable Iffue.

Stanza the Seventh. (d) With what Diabolical Presumption they Canonize their Brother Regicides, and confer the Holy Dignity of a

Saint upon the worft of Murtherers ! and ell

Stanza the Ninth. ( ) If fuch Herses as they bave the Confidence to file their Rebellious Progenitors, are Admitted into the Glory, by which they mean Heaven; the greatest Sinners upon Earth have but little reason to despair of Eternal Happiness.

Stanza the Tenth. (f) You may Judge of the Excellent Principles of these Calves-head Liberty and Property Men, from their Words referr'd to, where they are for knocking all Good Men on the Head for Puppies, that are for Controuling them in their Frantick Celebration of that Abominable Deed ; which no Christian in their Right. Senses can reflect upon without Horror and Amazement.

An Anthem on the 30th of January. and Admiration of a Barbarous Ad, which no good subject can think an without remisling, business process to Elcome brave Souls, on and lo your sould and state of your Bowls. (a) Twas an Act we all do Admire; To Rifle the Work, Of an English Turk, and with Whose Son set our City on Fire.

Show Whose Deeds were forgot, which is the fire of the Till revived by at Plot, Carried on by thisten Mack-Ninney But the Martyr in Rage.

Loft his Head on a Stage.

(A) And the Church swore the Devil was in ye. ally to regommend the greatest of takin villamete; and to give asonsodur en Then let us Commend o vicinshi ent en soucet la some The Deeds of a Friend That caused our Jolly Meeting :

bee selv a dom bladlomeous

Ca ) . build Thirt a Aresto

To our Fathers we owe, with the Honour o'th' Blow, on a state of the problem of the And we are their Sons that are Feathing? a void as visite and the blow.

But who wou'd have thought,

Shou'd make use of the Power of France Sir!

But their Work is done, and it (a) diam with sand

We have loft both Root and Branch Sir. in the daily to the state

Then again let's commend,

That Warlike Hand,

That fav'd our English Nation;

Twas Puss in her Furr,

Did scratch, spit and ourr

And pointed to Abdication and pure, the delivered to the second

Reflections on an Anthem on the 3 oth of January.

Stanza the First. (a) Here they are not content to Insolently express their Love and Admiration of a Barbarous Act, which no good Subject can think on without trembling, but even proceed to blast the pious Memory of the most Christian Martyr, with the scurrilous Epethite of English Turk; and to basely charge the Fire of London upon one of his Sons, which has been sufficiently provid upon their own Party; in order to cast their own Villanies upon such Persons who were utterly Innocent of the matter.

Stanza the Second. (b) As themselves say, I think the Ghurch, when they saw the Life of their Just and Injur'd Monarch so Wrong-tully and Maliciously Extorted from him, by the Merciless Hands of a parcel of Insatiate Rebels, might very justly Swear that the Devilwas in 'em; for had he not, it is impossible they should ever have accomplish'd such a Vile and Bloody Undertaking.

Stanza the Third. (c) You may observe in most of their Scandalous Ballads, as well as this Stanza, it is the highest of their Vanity to recommend the greatest of their Villanies; and to give abundance of Honour to the Memory of those Bloody Assassinators, whose Sons they boast themselves; And that they are proud of the Occasion their their Fathers have given them of Meeting, to Rejoyce over the Infamy of their Ancestors. What can a Government expect, but the like Cruelty from the like Party, if ever they are suffer'd to get uppermost.

A SONG at the Calves-Head-Clubb, January the 30th, 1698.

Rown, Crown the Goblet, Quaff the sparkling Wine, Invoke the Assistance of the Tuneful Nine:
The great Concernment of this Glorious Day,
Shou'd all our Wit, and all our Joy display;
No Gloomy Look, no Pensive Thought be found,
Where Liberty with sprightly Joys go Round.
Let black Despair convert into a Smile,
And Peals of Triumph Eccho thro' the Isle.

Let Tyrants faint, and tremble when they're told What Deeds the Annals of this day unfold.
(b) When daring Justice led her Troops to Fight,
Fought, and the bold Oppressor put to flight.
When purple streams distain'd the Native Green,
Ye Gods! What Courage, and what Heat was seen!
When Heaven inspir'd Heroes dare to own
The Noble Cause, and pull the Monster down.

Fill round again, the Justice of their Arms;
Has endless praises, and Immertal Charms.
Time cannot lessen, and no Age express
The bold Atchievements of that God-like Race, Born to Chastise, and Scourge Tyrannic Might,
Durst bravely plead the Cause of Injur'd Right:
And to Posterity, an instance gave,
That a brave Man can never be a Slave.

to meno never by all event

Contemn the Lazy Lubbards of the Church, Who Mourning One, left to ther in the Lurch; Who to the Sire their Adoration pay, Yet basely left the Son to Run away: In vain they Preach, in vain they Cant and Whine, Heaven Scorns their Prayers, and Hates the gross design, Their Martyr'd Monarch's grown a Senseless jest, That Fools admire, and all good Men detest.

Charge, Gharge again, let Wine profusely flow, They Smile above to See our Mirth below; Their inlarg'd Souls are vastly pleas'd to hear Their Deeds Recounted each Returning Year. In Flowing Bouls we our Oblations make, 'Tis all that we can give, or they can take: While thus in Friendship, we our Homage pay, And Celebrate the Glories of the Day.

Reflections on a Song, Sung at the Calves-Head-Feaft, January the 30th. 1698.

In the first Stanza, (a) Their Poet-Laureat for the day, is for inveking the Muses to their Assistance; but I think any Body may discern by their Poetry, that their Ladyships have more Wit than to enter into such a Wicked Confederacy. And as for their old Cant of Liberty, the World is wise enough to see, that those who make the greatest busse about it, are a parcel of Restless Rebels, who are always seeking to destroy it; and at the same instant they are crying it up, they are striving to pu'll it down, in order to make the rest of their fellow Subjects Slaves to their Fanatical Tyranny and Ambition.

In Stanza the Second, (b) They seem very proud of putting the bold Oppressor, that is, sawcily meaning the Royal Martyr, to slight; and also Boast as much of distaining the Field with their own Country-Men's blood, as if Rebellion and Blood-shed were Acts that deferv'd Immortal Glory.

In Stanza the Third, they are mightily affected, with the endless praises due to the Justice of their Arms : And the bold Atchievements of that Godlike Race. By which is meant themselves, and their Brother Regicides, so that Rebellion, and King-Killing, are esteem'd amongst them, as such meritorious Vertues that have a just Title to the Applause of all posterity: Therefore in how miserable a Condition must a Nation be, that is over-run and trampled upon by an ungovernable number of such Blood-sucking Vermin.

4. Contesta

In Stanza the Fourth, how prettily they reflect their own Treachery upon the Church Lubbers, as they are pleas'd to call the Church of England Clergy; and Impudently accuse them of Canting and Whining, when every Body knows they are Rediculous Qualifications, only practis'd and improved by their own Dull, Spiteful, and Illiterate Teachers.

In Stanza the Fifth, the Poetaster seems mightily pleas'd, to think how the King-Killers, who he presumes are in Heaven, smile above at the Drunken Revels of their Rebellious progeny below: But I doubt he assigned the wrong Place for his Defunct Patriots, who in all Honest Mens opinion, are most likely to be found in those dark Regions; where they found but little reason to laugh at the Frantick Oblations of their Sorrows, Sons who succeed them in their Wickedness.

An Anniversary Poem on the 30th of January 1699.

Ail Sacred day! (a) that each Returning Year,
Do'ft with new Light our Drooping Spirits Chear; Remind'st us of our Ancestors Renown,
Who bravely pull'd a sawcy Tyrant down,
While Liberty Triumphant fill'd the Throne.
The Tydings first at the Curst Court began,
Which chearfully thro' all the Nation ran:
Fresh Streams of unknown Joys around did flow,
And all good Men ador'd the Righteous Blow.
The Sun Transported with the Noble Deed,
Shone out, and Smil'd to see the Monster Bleed,
The amaz'd World, united in Applause,
And blest the Justice of our Arms and Cause.

(32)

Nought under Meaven Mourn'd but the curft Prieft. Whose damn'd Dissimulation is a Jest, and Jan Barrens and That every Free-born Nation from'd deteff Thrice Hail Illustrious day! in thee's display'd A brighter Scene than when the World was made: When from dark Chaos this gay form was Rear'd. And all the grizly Phantomes disappear'd: Just so, they flunk away, just so they fled. And Groan'd and Tumbl'd with the Tyrant's Head. While general Gladness did the life imploy. And every English Tongue did Shout for Joy. Hail once again thou Glorious part of time! Thou endless subject of Eternal Rhime : May I forget to make my Numbers meet. And Tune New Thoughts in well Composed Feet; May She I love, forget to love me more, Be always Wretched, I be always Poor, If I forget this Sacred day t'adore, When Courage over Slavery did prevail, a contract we made And Providence weigh'd down the juster Scale : When Right Triumphant o'er Injustice Rode. Following the Foot-steps of the Leading God, Did to the doubting World a pattern flew. What English Men for English Rights dare do.

Reflections on an Anniversary Poem on the goth of January, 1699.

Ow impudently they profane the word Sacred, by adding it to the Black Day, which unhappily produced the fad occasion of all our Succeeding Miseries; and in line the Fourth, to express their Malice, with the greater rancour, to stile the best of Kings, who was object of their Fury, the Sawey Tyrant; And then in line the Ninth to Ten, Devilially affirm that all good Men ador'd the Righteens Blow, when nothing is more evident than that none but the worst and wickedest of Men had ever the Impudence to open their Mouths, in the Vindication of so base and barbarous a Tragedy. And in the two sollowing lines, how the infamous Author seems to be transported with his Diabolical Flight; so I may justly term it, for nothing sure but the Fury of Hell (instead of the Mules) could ever have inspir'd such a Republican Scribler, with such an Audacious piece of Bombast, vic.

(33)

The Sun Transported with the Noble Detd,
Shone out, and smil'd to see the Monster Bleed.

Indeed the whole Poem is all of a piece, and I think is such a compleat Composition of Malice and Impudence, that none but a Calvesbead-Clubb, of the most stigmatized Rebels, would ever have received under their Villanous Patronage: And as it truly deserves, so I hope it will always remain in Print, as an Everlasting Register of the Author's Shame and Insamy; as well as of the Incorrigible impudence of that vile Society, who at first gave it their Protection.

The Health.

Hen Tories and Parfons do Cant and Pray,
And spit their dull Malice on us,
Let's remember the Cause, that occasion'd the Day,
And Drink a good Health to Old Puss, Old Puss.
When Priests of Rebellion and Treason prate,
And Extol the lude Monarch Emured in the Cack, Confront 'em with Vagabond James's Fate,
And put 'em in mind of the stroak they struck;
When Oppression increases, and Hopes grow less.

When Tyrants unbridl'd their Subjects vex, Let's chear up our selves with the happy success,

That once did attend on the Ax, the Ax.

Then Freedom and Peace did in Triumph appear,
As foon as the Glorious Deed was done,
Our Fathers perform'd, and why mou'd we fear
To follow what they have so well begun?

Moses of Old, when the Jews dispand.
How they shou'd threatning Dangers shun,
Buoy'd up their Faith, with wonders they've heard,
Had by their Fathers been done, been done.

But we have better Examples in store, When Power with Liberty won't Accord; We'll follow the Pattern, they set us before, And deliver our selves from the Sword, the Sword.

Then fill up the Glass to the Daring Hand, Which bravely finish'd the just design,

And stain with Tyrannical Blood the Sand,
While Murmuring Scots repine, repine.

About with't again to the Hand and Cause,.
That gave us occasion to Revel thus;
Confusion to those, who shall dare refuse,
To Drink a Good Health to Old Puss, Old Puss.

Reflections on the Health Drank at the Calves-Head-Clubb.

Y the Old Puss, to whom they Dedicate their Intoxicating Bumpers, I suppose they mean the Good Old Cause, from the further promotion of which, may Heaven defend Her Majefty and Her Kingdoms; for certainly fuch Audacious Wretches, who have impudence enough to glory in the vilest deed that ever was perpetrated by Human Hands, whenever they have power, will, with as great Joy, repeat the same Villanies and Cruelties, which they fo highly approve on in their Wicked Faction. What can be more Startling and Amazing to a Man of any Honefty or Conscience, than the unaccountable Insolence of such a daring Society. who by the damnable Doctrine of their Revengeful Teachers, are fo harden'd in their Malice against Monarchy and Church-Government. that they shou'd drink to the Memory of that accursed Hand ( over and over, as you find in the foregoing Health ) which so Batharously Rob'd the best of Princes of his Life, to satisfy the Inexorable Revenge of the worst of People, from whose Accursed Cruelty,

Good Lord deliver as.

word up their kairs, with wendere the

A

VINDICATION

OFTHE

ROYAL MARTYR

King Charles I.

Wherein are laid open

The Republicans Mysteries of Rebellion;

Written in the Time of the

USURPATION.

By the Celebrated Mr. BUTLER,

Author of Hudibrass.

rough at the remark that are a least of the 的一口,如此人的 "阿尔斯特" 二克几年的

or the filters of Parries San that I this sim to toronde autorget his Prices.

relace to the Render.

recent action is a strong with the properties of the properties and the properties of the properties o

PREFACE

READER.

HE Publisher of this following Discourse, bas thought fit to oblige the World with a Piece of Curiofity: It was Penn'd above Forty Year's since by the Ingenious and Celebrated Author of Hudibras. The Libel, which he Answers, was the Labour of one John Gook, Master of Grays-Inn, a great Pains-taker in the Mysteries of Rebellion: you the Original of it . 'twas a studied Invective against the Person of King Charles I. before the High Court of Justice ( so call'd ) of Infamous Memory; But upon the Non-Pleading of the Royal Martyr, 'twas afterwards Metamorphos'd into a Pamphlet, with the Specious Title of King Charles's Cafe; or an Appeal to all Rational Men concerning his Tryal. How Rational this Appeal was, may be easily discover'd from those Numerous Fallacies and Notorious Falshoods, which our Author bas detected in bim, not only as to what concerns plain Matter of Fact, but also in the Pamphleteer's pretended way of Reasoning, the False Logisk, and worse Law. I shall not enter into the Merits of the Cause; for I suppose the more Rational part of Mankind, is abundantly satisfied in the Innocence of that great Man, as to any thing that was laid to his Charge; And upon that Account, indeed, there would have been little occasion as this time of the Day to produce so great an Advocate for his Memory, but there is risen among us a new Rule of the Old Republican Stamp, who have reviv'd the Quarrel, and Copied out the obsolete and almost forgotten Scandal of our Libeller, and made it their own. The Author of Ludlow's Letter may be recken'd amongst the first of these, one that always set up for a Patron of Faction, and a Promoter of the Good Old Cause; but show a himself most in that samous Year, when however one of the Tribunes of the People. I should not have made such a Digression upon this Worthy Patriot, but that I find him to Intrude amongst his Friends, Mr. Milton, and our Libeller, and seems to be the very Copy of their Malice at least, though not their Wit; and for that reason, I must confess, he seems to be the least pointed at by our Answer. I shall say no more of him at present, but pass him by with the same Contempt as the Government has Wisely done; 'tis but unseasonable Quarreling with a Man that is Arm'd with so much Dirt, you'll be sure of that; if you have nothing else,

I need not Trouble the Reader with any Harrangue upon our Author, or his Book; I suppose he is no stranger to the Honester and more Learned part of the Kingdom; and, as for the rest, 'twas their best security they were not known by him. I shall only add, that it was Mr. Butlet's design to Print the Discourse himself, had not Death prevented him; And since it has fell into the Editor's Hands, 'tis but a piece of Justice to his Memory, to let the World make their Advantage of it.

Grays Long at from Labor Somerry or a Subject of the State of the Stat yet by Supplied of Mr. State a flateral description of the learning and any ming work black to the surface of the control of th described in miss, and compared to the control of t ing Try . Here Ampropriates Ingress for stay which which as now aftern

Tuellog interest that are seened a control of the c wate please and or long to medical this raws a sense of

THE County street Alon as crack roung cours for last tasts take to be a few and the county of the co

THE

ROYAL MARTYR VINDICATED

Against fohn Cook, and several others, Pains-Takers in the Mysteries of Rebellion.

By Mr. Butler, Author of Hudibras.

Mr. COOKE,

AVING lately seen a Book of yours, which you are pleased to call King CHARLES bis Case, or an Appeal to all Rational Men concerning his Tryal; I was much invited to read it, by the Ingenuity promised in your Title. For having heard you Stile your self Sollicitor-General for the King's Dread Sovereign, and your own Honourable Client, the People; I was much taken with your Impartiality, that not only exempts all Rational Men from being your Clients in this Case, in making them by your Appeal your Judges: For no Man you know can be a Judge in his own Case, but acknowledge your High Court from which you Appeal to all Rational Men to consist of no such: But indeed I had not read many lines before I found mine own Error, as well as yours, and your Proceeding nothing agreeable to the Plain dealing I expected from you; for you presently fall to insult upon the unhappiness of your undeserving Adversary, and that with so little moderation, as if you strove to make it a question whether his incomparable Patience, or your own ungoverned Passion, shou'd be the greater wonder of Men, preposterously concluding him Guilty, before with one Syllable you had proved him so: A strange way of doing Justice, which you endeavour to make good by a strange insolent Railing, and more insolent proceeding to the secret Counsel of Almighty God, from whence you presume to give Sentence on him; a boldness no less impious than unjust in you, were it true, since we can never know it to be io.

But indeed, it is hard to say whether you have shewn more Malice or Vanity in this notable Declaration of yours; for he that considers the Affectation and Fantastique Lightness of your Language, (such as Ireland, a Land of Ire; Bite-Sheep for Bishops, and other such ingenious Elegancies of quibble;) must needs confess it an Oratory more becoming a Fool in a Play, or Peters before the Rabble, than the Patrons of his Sovereign's Sovereign, or the gravity of that Court, which you say right wisely, shall be admired at the Day of Judgment. And therefore you do ill to accuse him of reading Johnson's and Shakespear's Plays, which it seems you have been more in your self to much worse purpose, else you had never hit so right upon the very Dialect of their Railing Advocates; in which (believe me) you have really out-acted all that they could fansie of Passionate and Ridiculous Outrage.

For certainly, Sir, I am so Charitable to believe it was your Passion that imposed upon your Understanding; else, as a Gentleman, you could have never descended to such Peasantry of Language, especially against such a Person, to whom (had he never been your Prince) no Law enjoyns (whatsoever his offences were) the Punishment of Ribaldry. And for the Laws of God they absolutely Condemn it: of which I Wonder you that pretend so much to be of his Council, should be eigenstant.

ther fo ignorant or forgetful.

Calamity is the Visitation of God, and (as Preachers tell us) a Favour he does to those he Loves; where-ever it falls it is the Work of his Hand, and should become our Pity, not our infolence. This the Antient Heathen knew, who believing Thunder come from the Arm of God, reverence the very Trees it Lighted on.

But your Pallion hath not only milled you against Civility, and Christian Charity, but Common Sense also; else you would never have driven your Charlot of Reason (as you call it) so far out of the Road, that you forget whither you are going, and run over every thing that Rands in your way; I mean your unufusl way of Argument, not only against Reason, but your self, as you do it at the first fally, for after, your fit of raving is over, you bestow much pains to prove it one of the Fundamentals of Liw, That the King is not above the Law, but the Law above the King. And this you deraign, as you call it, so far, that at length you fay, the King hath not by Law fo much Power as a justice of Peace to commit any Man to Prison; which you would never have done, if you had confidered from whom the Justice derives his Power : or in whose Name his Warrants run; else you may as well fay, a Man may give that which he hath not; or prove the Moon hath more Light than the Sun, because he cannot shine by Night as the Moon doth. But you needed not have strained so hard, for this will serve you to no purpose, but to prove that which was never deny'd by the King himfelf; for if you had not a much worse Memory than Men of your Gondition shou'd have, you cou'd not so foon have forgotten, that immediately after the reading of that Charge, the King demanded of your High Court, by what Law they cou'd fit to Judge him; (as offering to submit if they could produce any) but then silence or interruption were thought the best ways of confessing there was no fuch thing: And when he undertook to shew them both Law and Reason too, why they cou'd not do it: The Righteous President told him plainly, he must have neither Law nor Reason, which was certainly (as you have it very finely) the most comprehensive, impartial, and glorious Piece of Justice that ever was play'd on the Theatre of England; for what cou'd any Court do more than rather Condemn it felt than injure Truth.

But you had better have left this whole Bufiness of the Law out of your Appeal to all Rational Men, who can make no use of it, but against your self: for if the Law be above the King, much more is it above the Subject. And if it be so heinous a Crime in a King to endeavour to set himself above Law, it is much more heinous for Subjects to set themselves above King and Law both. Thus like right Mountebanks, you are fain to Wound and Poison your selves to cheat others, who cannot but wonder at the considence of your Imposture, that are not assumed to magnific the Power of the Law while you violate it; and consels you set your selves really above the Law to condemn the King for but intending it.

And indeed Intentions and Designs are the most considerable part both of your Accusations and Proofs, some of which you are fain to setch fetch a great way off, as far as his Coronation Oath, which you next fay, He or the Arch bishops, by his order emasculated, and left out very material Words (which the People shall choose) which is most salfe; for these Words were not lest out, but rendered with more sence (which the Commonalty have) and if you consider what they relate to (Customs) you will find you cannot, without open injury, interpret (elegeric in the Latin Oath) shall choose, not hath chosen; for if you will have consideratines quas vulgas elegeric, to mean Customs which are to be not only use, which must be often repeated before it become a Custom, but choice, which Necessarily preceeds use.

But suppose it were as you wou'd have it, I cannot see with what reason you can presume it to be a design to subvert the Laws, since you know he had sworn to desend them before in the first Article of the Oath, from which I wonder how you can suppose that so wise a Prince (as you acknowledge him to be) cou'd be so irrational to believe himself absolute by this omission. But you are not without surther contradiction yet, for if he were so persidious a Violater of Oaths, as you wou'd have the World believe, what reason had he to be so Conscientious of taking them? certainly he has little cause to be nice what Oaths he takes, that hath no regard what Oaths he breaks.

Nor can I possibly understand your other construction of his refusal to take the Oath, as his Predecessors had done, which you will have a design to resuse his assent to such good Laws rather than bad. Ones, as the Parliament should tender; for besides the absurd conceipts that he must still like the bad better than the Good, if you, consider what you say afterwards, the charitable sense will appear by your own Words to be truest; for you confess he gave his assent to any bad one, else you had not been sain, for want of such, to accuse him of a sew good ones as you do there; which of these is most probable let every rational Christian judge.

Your next Argument to Prove the King's Design to destroy the Law, is thus order'd. Those Knights that were by an Old Statute-to attend at the King's Coronation, being promised by his Proclamation (in regard of the Infection then spread round through the Kingdom) a Dispensation for their absence, were after fined at the Council Table; no doubt by the Procurement of some of your own Tribe, where they Pleading the Proclamation for their Indemnity were answered, That the Law of the Land was above any Proclamation: Your Conclusion is therefore, The King had a design to

Subvert the Laws: Sure there is no Manin his Wits but wou'd conclude the contrary; such Arguments as these are much like the Ropes that Oanus twifted only for Alles to devour.

But if this should fail, you know you were provided with another not less Substantial, and that is, his alteration of the Judges Commissions, who heretofore had their Places granted to them during their Good Behaviour, but he made them but during Pleasure, of this you make a sad Business of a very imaginary evil Consequence; but if you had Considered before, what you say presently after, that the King, and not the Judges, is to be accountable for the injustice and oppression of the Government, &c. you wou'd have found it very just that he shou'd use his Pleasure in their dissimission as well as choice; For Men of your Profession, that have lived long enough to be Judges, are not such Punies in cunning, to play their feats of Iniquity aboveboard: and if they may sit still they can be proved to have Misbehaved themselves; the Prince that is to give account for all, may fooner know he is abused, than know how to help himself.

All the inconveniency which you can fansie possible to ensue it, is only to fuch bad Judges as buy their Places; of whose Condition and Loss you are very sensible, as if they had too hard a bargain of Injustice, believe they may have reason enough to give unjust Judgement; rather. than lofe their Places and their Money too, if they shall receive such intimation from the King, But you forget your felf when you put this in your Appeal to all Rational Men; for they will tell you thiswas a bold affront done to your High Court of Justice; for it it were potential Tyranny (as you will have it) in the King to have but a defign to indure the Judges to give Sentence against the Law. which you fay brings the People the very next step to Slavery : What is it in those who presume to give Sentence themselves not only contary to Law, but the declared Opinion of all the Judges, and those of their chooling too? And (I befeech you) whether by your own Doctrine does this bring the People that submit to it? Certainly if you that can accuse the King of this, had been a Jew heretofore, you wou'd not only have stoned your Fellows, but your Saviour too.

But if all your Arguments should miscarry, you have a Reserve left that does (as you say) irrefragably prove the design; what's that? he is restless to destroy Parliament, or make them uscless. Believe me, this is right Ignotum per ignotius, excellent Consequence to prove his Design by his Desires; you should have proved his Desires first (if you would prove his Thoughts by his Thoughts) for certainly;

certainly if ever he designed it, he desired it sirst. You had better have concluded plainly he did it because he designed it, for that is all one in Sense? But if I might be but half so bold with your Designs, I should with more Reason guess you have one to make us believe your familiar Acquaintance with the secret Counsels of God (which you so often pretended to) else certainly he has given the Desires of Man so private a Lodging, that without his own Discovery (which you can give us no Account of) you have no other way to know them. You do well, and if I may advise you, you shall give over this unlucky thing called Reason, and betake your self wholly to Revelations.

How these Arguments might prevail with your High Court of Juflice, I cannot tell; but in my Opinion, they had little Reason to thank you for this last, for while you make a King a Traytor, and prove his meer Defire to deftroy the Parliament, or make it useless, a purpose to subvert the Laws, you do but tell them what they are that have already done it, and the People what a deal of Law they are to expect hereafter. All you can justly, in your own Sense, accuse the King of, is Discontinuance, or untimely Dissolution of Parliaments, which I wonder with what Sense you can Interpret a design to destroy the Parliaments, fince all the World knows when he parted with his Power, to dissolve the Parliament too. But see how doubly unjust you are; you accuse him for not calling Parliaments so often as he was bound to do by the Law, once a year ( as you fay ) or oftner, but never consider how that is impossible to be done, without Dissolving them as often, for doing which, notwithstanding with so much Glamour you condemn him. Thus you charge him with Inconsistencies, and may with much more Reason accuse him for calling Parliaments, because if he had not called them, he could never have dissolved them, which is very like your way of Argument.

But much better than you commonly use for your next (to remove an Objection out of your way) is thus managed. The King, and not the Judges and Evil Counsellers, ought to be Accountable for the Male Administrations, Injustices, and Oppressions of the Parliament, your Reasons are, because he made such wicked and corrupt Judges. Were they not his own Creatures? and ought not every Man to be accountable for the Work of his own Hands? Believe me, this were something, if you could prove he made them wicked, as well as Judges. But if this Plea hold, you have Argued well for your Honourable Clients, the People; for if they made the King, as you say they did, you have cleared him of all such horrid Crimes, Murders, and Massacres, which you take so much Pains to no purpose, to accuse him of; and like a right Man of Law, have undone your Clients, upon whose Score you set them: Your next Business will be to prove God Guilty of the Sins of Wicked Men, for they are his Creatures, and the Work of his Hands, I take it. But this is your perpetual Method of doing him Right, to make him sole Author and Owner of all his ill order'd or unhappy Actions, and not allow him a share in any good Deed or Act of Grace.

And these are the Fundamentals of the Charge, only Suppositions of Intentions and Designs, which how far you have proved just or profitable, let any Man but your self Judge: The Course you take afterwards, is much worse in my Opinion, for you make your own Grounds, and either not prove them at all, or (which is worse) prove them upon their own bottom, as when you take upon you to state the Ground of your Wars, and prove the King to be the Cause of it, you do it thus.

The King (you fay) fet up his Standard of War for his own Advancement and Upholding of his Personal Interest, Power, and pretended Prerogative, against the publick Interest of common Right. Peace, and Safety. How do you prove this ( Because he fought for the Militia, for a Power to call and Diffolve Parliaments, a negative Voice, to make Judges, confer Honours, grant Pardons, make Corporations, inhance or debase Money, and avoid his own Grants. These you call his Personal Interest, Power and Prerogative, which you say he fought for: Now, put the Polition and Proof together, and fee what Sense it will make; truly none but this: That he made War for his Prerogative, because he fought for his Prerogative: Is not this fine Logick ! but suppose it were Sense, how do you prove he fought for his Prerogative? to this, you have not one Word to fay; and why then should we rather take your Word than the King's, who protested he took Arms in Defence of the Protestant Religion, the Liberty of the Subject, Privileges of Parliament, and Laws of England? Gertainly there is no Man in his Wits, but would rather believe his Words, than your Arguments, if he does but confider that the most Probable part of all, (he protested to fight for the Defence of the Privileges of Parliaments,) is found by Experience to be no Paradox: How true the rest is time will instruct you. But yet, I cannot see why we should not rather belive them, than the Pretences of the Parliament, which were more to fight in Defence of his Person, and their own Privileges, which how they have performed, your felf can tell;

but all this while you Miltake your own Question, which was not the right of Caufe, but the Caufe, or (as you have it) the Occasion of the War; and if you had a purpose to know that, Actions had been the only Guide of your Enquiry; for Intentions and Words are uncertain, and if they make no affault in private quarrels, I know not why they should in publick; and therefore, since we can never agree about the Truth of more remote Causes, tis most just for us to place the Cause of the War where we find the first Breach of the Peace. Now. that the King was cleared of this, all indifferent Men, who had the Unhappiness to be acquainted with the Method of their own undoing. can very well testifie. And if the Parliament should deny it, their own Votes would Contradict them, as well as their Actions; for when they first raised Horse and Arms, they pretended to do fo, because it appeared the King, seduced by wicked Councel, intended to make War against the Parliament; whereby they confess he had not then done it, and they had fo little Ground to make it appear he ever would that they were fain to usurp the Right of his Cause, to justifie their own; and they fay took Arms for the Defence of the King; which if we grant, it must follow they first made War against him; for no Body else ever did, against whom they could possibly defend him: nor did their Actions, in offering the first Violence, less declare who began the War, when having an Army ready to invade him, before he fet up his Standard, they both followed and fet upon him; as they did at Edge-Hill. Go as far as you can, you will still find the Scots (whose Quarrel the Parliament took up at the second Hand, as well as they followed their Examples) were the first beginners of all.

This being granted, how the King could afterwards do less than he did, I cannot understand: First he was bound by the Law of Nature (which you say is Legislative, and hath a suspensive Power over all Human Laws) to defend himself. Secondly, by his Goronation Oath, which he took to keep the Peace; and how could he do that, but by his Raising Power to suppress those who had already broken it? Thirdly, by the Laws of the Land, which you say trusted him with the Power of the Sword, and how could he preserve that Trust, if he had sate still and suffered others not only to take it from him, but to use it against him.

But it is most probable that he never intended it, else he was very unwise to let them be before-hand with him, in seizing upon his Castles, Magazines, and Ships; for which there can be no Reason imagin'd, but that he was loth to give them any Occasion (in securing them) them ) to suspect he did but intend a War. And by all this, I doubt not but it appears plain enough to all Rational Men, that he was so far from being the Cause of the War, that he rather sell into it by avoiding it; and that he avoided it so long, 'till he was sain to take Arms at so great a Disadvantage, as had almost as good have sate still, and suffered. And in this you have used the King with the same Justice the Christians received from Nero, who having set Rome on fire himself, a Sacrifice to his own wicked Genius, laid the Odium of it on the Christians, and put them to Death for it.

But this way you found too fair and open for your purpose, and therefore declined it for having proved his Intentions by his Defires. and his Actions by his Intentions, you attempt a more prepofterous way yet, to prove both ; by what might have been his Intentions : And to this purpole, you have the Confidence ( in spite of Sense ) to make Contingencies the final Cause of Things: And Impolitick Accidental, pollible Inconveniencies ( which all the Wit of Man can never avoid ) the intended Reasons of State. As when you will have the King Fight for the Militia, only to Command the Purfe of the People ; for a Power to make Judges, only to wrest the Laws ; to grant Pardons, that publick spirited Men (as you call them) may be made away, and the Murderers pardon'd, &c.s. All which being Creatures of your own Fanfy and Malice, (and no part of his Quarrel ) you are so far from proving he fought for that, when you have strained your Ability; all that you can fay, is but this, in your own Senfe, That he fought for a Power to do that which he never would do when it was in his Power: But if you take this Liberty, I cannot but think how you would bestir your felf, if you could get your God, as you have done; your King, before such an Impartial High Court of Justice as this ! how would you charge him with his Mif-government in Nature, for ... which, by the very fame Logick, you may prove he made us all Slaves. in causing the Weaker to hold his Life at the Pleasure of the Stronger; that he fet up a Sun to dezel our Eyes, that we might not fee ; and to kindle Fevers in our Veins, made Fire to burn us, Water to drown us, and Air to poison us, and then demand Justice against him; all which you may easily do, now you have the trick on't, for the very fame Reason will serve again, and with much more probability, for it is easier to prove, that Men have been burnt and drowned, and died of the Plague, than to make it appear the King ever used your finer Device to remove Publick spirited Men; or can you, without extreme Injustice, suppose he ever would? for tis so much, as very well known, he a he highly favoured and advanced his greatest Opposers, (for such you mean, I know) whom he found Owners of any Eminent Desert, as he did the Earl of Strafford, and the Attorney-General Noy, (and for other honest Men, as you will have them) whom Frenzy or Sedition set against him, by your own Confession; he did not suffer those black Stars (very strange ones) to sit their Noses, and crop their Ears.

But now I think of these honest publick spirited Men, certainly some of them have not so good an Opinion of the Honesty of your publick Proceedings, but they would willingly venture not only their Ears again (if they had them) but their Heads too, in Desiance of your most comprehensive piece of Justice, whose Cause, whilst you take upon you to plead against their Consent, as you have done your Honourable Clients the People; you deserve in Reason to be thrown over the Barr by your own Party, for you but consess your own Injustice, while you acknowledge the publick Honesty of those that most oppose it.

How folid or pertinent those Arguments of yours have been let any Man that is fober, Judge: But you are refolved, right or wrong, they shall pass, to let us know how easily he that has the Unhappiness to be judged by his Enemies, is found guilty of any thing they please to lay to his Charge ; and therefore fatisfied with your own Evidence, you proceed to Sentence, and condemn the King with much Formality, by the Fundamental Laws of this Kingdom, by the general Laws of all Nations, and the Unanimous Confent of all Rational Men in the world, for imploying the Power of the Sword to the Destruction of the People, with which they intrusted him for their own Protection. How you got the Consent of Rational Men to this Sentence, I cannot Imagine; for 'tis most certain ( by your own Confession ) that he never employed the Sword, but against those who first fought to deprive him of it : and by that very A&, declared they did not truft him, and confequently absolved him both from the Obligation that he had to protect them, and the possibility too: For no Man can defend another longer than he defends himfelf; fo that if you will have your Sentence to be just, you must confess it to be Nonsense, for you must not only prove, that those who fought against him were the People that trusted. him; not those that fought for him, but the lester, or less considerable part of the People, the people as you have the Confidence to call your Honourable Clients, being not the Twentieth part of the very Rabble; which, if you can do, you are much wifer than Selomon: For it is easier to divide a Child in two parts, than to make one of those two parts a whole Child; And if you have the trick on't, you shall be next next allowed to prove; that, take four out of fix, there remains fix: Nor is there more Justice or Reason in the Sentence, than in the Course you take to uphold it; for while you deny the old Maxim of Law, That the King can do no Wrong, you maintain a new one much worse, That he may suffer any; and having limitted his Power to act only according to Law, expose him to suffer, not only without, but against Law. Truly it is hard Measure, but rather than fail of your Purpose, you will make as bold with Scriptures as you have done with Reason, if it stand in your way; as you do when you interpret that place of the Apostles, where no Law is, there is no Transgression, to mean, where there is neither Law of God nor Nature, nor positive Law: I wonder where that is; certainly you had better undertake to find out a Plantation for Archimedes his Engine to move the Larth, than but fansie where that can be, which you must do before you can make this Scripture to be understood to your purpose; and I cannot but smile to think how hard a Task that will be for such a strong Fancy as yours, that cannot conceive what your felf affirm; for when you deny it possible to suppose two supreme Powers in one Nation, you forgot that you had acknowledged much more before, for you confess the King to be supreme, when you say very Elegantly, he made Head against the Parliament, who acknowledged him to be the Head thereof, and yet you say the Parliament is the Supreme Authority of the Nation. Thus you affirm that really to be, which you think is impossible to imagine.

But such lucky Contradictions of your self, as well as Sense, are as familiar with you as Railing, for befides the many before mentioned, and your common Incongruities of Speech, is as far from Construction, as the Purpole: Their are others, which for your Encouragement ought not to be omitted; and when you would prove the King the most abominable Tyrant that ever people suffered under, yet you say he was beloved of some, and feared abroad: His Judges you compapared to the Saints fitting in Judgment at the last Day, and yet by your own Doctrine, they are more like Bears and Wolves, in fitting by a Commission of Force; their High Court is a Royal Palace of the Principles of Freedom, and yet, till the People voluntarily submit to a Government (which they never did to the Authority of that) they were but Slaves. The Parliament (you fay) petitioned the King as good Subjects, and yet immediately after, you make them his Lords, and himself Servant, so they give him the Honour of his own Royal Assent, and yet they often Petitioned him for it. His Tryal you call most Impartial, and yet cannot deny his Judges to be Parties, and his profest Enemies.

Enemies. But you hit pretty right when you fay he caused more Protestant Blood to be shed than ever was spilt either by Rome, Heathen, or Anti-christian : for grant that partly to be true, and confess as much Protestant Blood as ever was spilt by the Heathen Romans, unless they could kill Protestants 800 Years before there were any in the World; which Eloquent piece of Nonfense we must impute to your Ignorance in Chronology, or Confusion of Notions, which you please. Nor are those Riddles of Contradiction only in your Words, but in the whole Course of your Proceedings, for you never do the King any Right, but where you do him the greatest Wrong; and are there only rational, where you are most Inhuman, as in your Additional Accusation, fince his Death, for there you undertake to prove fomething, and give your Reasons (fuch as they are) to make it appear, which were fair Play, if you do not take an Advantage too unreasonable, to argue with the Dead. But your other Impeachments confift only of Generals, prove nothing, or Intentions, which can never be proved, or your own forc'd Construction of Actions, or what might have been Actions, but never were; all which you only aggrivate with Impertinency and foul Language, but never undertage to prove; and if we should fay, and suppose you said it in Sense or Order, it would ferve to no purpose, unless you have by Proof or Argument applied it to him, which you never went about to do.

But if this were the worst, you might be born with, as a thing more becoming the Contempt, then the Anger of Men; but who can preferve any Patience, that does but think upon that Prodigy of your Injustice, as well as Inhumanity, to accuse the King after his Death, of what you were ashamed to charge him with when alive? For what you say concerning the Death of King James, you will become the scorn of your own Party, for they never used it farther than they found it of Advantage to some Design they had in hand; as when they would move the King to grant their Propositions, they made it serve for an Argument to him; If he would Sign, he should be still their Gracious King, if not, he killed his Father: But when they found he would not be convinced with such Logick, they laid it utterly aside, for ( without doubt ) they had not lost an Advantage so useful as they might have made it in their Charge, had they not known it would have cost them more Impudence to mantain, than they should need to use in proceeding without it; but let us consider your Student's Might, with which you say you are satisfied, and yet after have it as a Riddle. First, he was observed to hate the Duke, but instantly, upon the death of King James, took him into his special Grace and Favour, of which ces, who use to love the Treason, but hate the Traytor; and if he had been so politick a Tyrant, as you would describe him, he would never believe his Life safe, nor his Kingdom his own, while any Man lived, (much less his Enemy, whom such a King would never trust) of whose Gift and Secresy he held them both; nor is it likely that he, who would not spare the Life of his Father to gain a Kingdom, should spare the Life of his Enemy to secure it. As for his dissolving the Parliament, I believe not only all Wise Men, but all that ever heard of this, will acquit him, whether he did it to avoid the Duke's Impeachment, you cannot prove, but if you could, you must consider, that in such Cases, Princes may as well protect their Favourites from Injury as Justice, since no Innocence can serve them, if they lie as open to the Que-flion, as they do to the Envy of Men.

But for the better Satisfaction of those you appeal to, I shall add this: It is most certain that this Humour of Innovation began to stir in the first Parliament of this King, and grew to an Itch in the Commons for the Alteration of Goverment; to which end, they first refolved to pull down the chief Instrument thereof, the Duke of Buckingham: But having then no Scotch Army, nor Act of Continuance to affure their Sitting, all the Wit of Malice could never invent a more politick Gourse than to impeach him, and put this Article (true or falle )into his Charge; for thus they were not only fure of the Affections of the People, who, out of the common Fate of Favourites, generally hated the Duke, and are always pleafed with the Ruin of their Superiors, but secured from the King's Interposition, whom they believed by this means bound up from protecting the Duke (tho' he knew his Innocency) least the Envy and Fancy of all should fall upon himfelf; but theKing, who understood their Meaning, & knew this was but in order to their further Attempts, (which always begin with fuch Sacrifices ) fuddenly dissolved the Parliament, and by his Wisdom and Policy, kept that Calamity fixteen years after from the People, which the very fame Courses and Fate of these unhappy times, have since brought upon them. But you have taken more pains to prove him Guilty fince his Death of the Rebellion in Ireland, altho' with as little Reason or Ingenuity, only you deal fairly in the beginning, and tell us what Judgment and Conscience we are to Expect from you, when you fay, as a Ground for all your Proofs; If you meet a Man running down Stairs with a Bloody Sword in his hand, and find a Man Stabbed in the Chamber, tho you did not fee this Man run into the Body by that Man which you met; yet if you were of the Jury, you durft not but find him Guilty of the Murther : I hope not before you know when ther the Man killed were fent by the King to fetch the Man you met, for then you may fay it must be in his own Defence : Truly you are a fubtil Enquirer, but let us hear fome of the clear Proofs ; first, he durst never deny it absolutely; besides the notorious falshood of that, it is most senseles to imagine, that he who had Wickedness enough to commit fo Horrid an Act, should have the innocent Modesty not to deny it when he durst not own it. He fent Thanks to Mufkerry and Plunket by Ormonde, which you are confident his height of Spirit wou'd never have done, if he had not been as Guilty as themselves; and may not Ormonde, that carried the Thanks, be by the same Reason as well proved Guilty as the King? What's next, if he had not been Guilty, he would have made a Thousand Declarations, and have fent to all the Princes in the World for Affiftance against such Hell-hounds, and Blood-hounds, &c. That was impossible to be done without fending to the Pope, and then you would have proved it clearly indeed. But the Copy of his Commission to the Irish Rebells, is in the hands of the Parliament. 'Tis most certain they never believed it themselves, else it had not been omitted in the Charge. But now for an Argument to the Purpose; after the Irish were Proclaimed Traytors and Rebels by the King, their General Council made an Oath to bear true and faithful Allegiance to King Charles, and by all means to maintain his Royal Prerogative against the Puritans in the Parliament of England, which they would never have done, unless he had commanded or consented to the Rebellion: But observe then what will follow; after the two Houses at Westminster, were proclaimed Rebels and Travtors by the King, they made a folemn Covenant to Defend his Royal Person Rights and Dignities, against all Opposers whatsoever and therefore by the same Reason he did command or consent to the War rais'd by the Parliament against himself. But did they not say they had his Commission, and call themselves the King and Queen's Armies? But then, you forget who they were that faid fo, Hell-hounds, and Bloodhounds, Feinds, and Fire-brands, and Bloody Devils, not to be named without Fire and Brimstone; do you think such are not to be believ'd. (especially when they speak for their own Advantage) rather than the People of God, the faithful of the Land at Westminster, who likewise, when they raised Forces, said, they did it for the King and Parliament? Can any Man in his Wits deny but the King is to be believed before either of these? And yet you cannot be perswaded, but his Offer to go in Person to suppress the Rebellion, was a Design to return at the Head

(53)

Head of 20 or 30000 Rebels to have destroy'd this Nation; that's very strange! but first, how shall we believe what you say before (to shew your Breeding?) Never was Bear so unwillingly brought to the Stake, as he was to declare against the Rebels, if he offered to adventure his Person to suppress them: When you have made this agree in Sense, let us know how you can suppose the same Person, the wisest King in Christendom, and yet so foolish to study his own destruction; for who could suffer so much in the Ruin of this Nation as himself? For his hindering the Earl of Leicester's going into Ireland, he had much more Reason to do so, than the Parliament had to hinder him, and therefore you may as well conclude them guilty as him of the Rebellion.

That he fold or exchanged, for Arms and Ammunition, the Cloath and Provisions, fent by the Parliament to the Protestants in Ireland, you must either accuse the Parliament, which seized upon his Arms first, and used them against him, or prove them above the Law of Nature, (which I believe you had rather do) that commands every Man to defend himself. But the Rebels in Ireland gave Letters of Mart for taking the Parliament Ships, but freed the King's as their very good Friends. I see you are not such a Wizard at Designs as you pretended to be; for if this be the deepest Reach of your subtiley, had you been a Senator in Rome, when Hannibal Invaded Italy, and burnt all the Country of the Roman Dictator, you would spared no longer to have proved him Confederate with the Enemy. But I fear I may feem as vain as your felf in repeating your impertinencies. There is one Argument that would have ferv'd instead of all, to convince evou of wickedness and folly in this buliness, and that is the Silence of the Charge, which by your own Rule, ought to be taken (pro confesso) there was never any luch thing.

I will not trouble my self nor any Body with your French Legend, as being too inconsiderable to deserve any serious Notice, built only upon Relation and Hear-says, and proved with your own Conjectures, which how far we are to Credit from aMan of so much Byass and Mistakes, any of those you appeal to, shall determin, to whom I shall say but this, that you do but acknowledge the Injustice of the Sentence, while you strove to make it good with such Additions; for if you had not believed it very bid, you would never have taken so much pains to mend it. And I hope your High Court will punish you for it, whose Reputation your officious Indiscretion hath much impared to no purpose: For tho' we should grant all your Additions to be true, as you would have it, it does not at all justifie the King's Death, since he did not Die in Relation to any thing there objected; and all you can possibly aim at by this pitiful Argument, is but to prove him guilty, because he was punished; for you can never prove him punished, because he was guilty.

For your Epilogue, I have so much Charity to believe it, being of a different Thread of Language, none of your own; but either Penn'd for you by your Musty Peerers, or else you writ Short-hand very well to copy after the Speech of his Tongue. However you came by it, sure I am it could come from no Body else; and having said so, I hope I shall need to say no more; for I shall be loath to commit the Sin of repeating any of it: But since 'tis but a Frippery of common places of Pulpit Railing, ill put together, that pretend only to Passion, I am content you should use them your sist, and be allowed to say any thing with as little regard, as if you wore your Priviledge. Yet lest you should grow conceited as to believe your self, I will take Solomon's Advice, and answer you not in your own way of Railing or Falshood, but in doing some Right to Truth and the Memory of the Dead, which you have equally Injured.

The Character of the Royal Martyr King Charles I. By Mr. Butler.

Hat he was a Prince of incomparable Vertues, his very Enemies cannot demy, (only they were not for their purpose) and those so unblemish'd with any personal Vice, that they were fain to abuse the Security of his Innocence, both to accuse and ruin him. His Moderation ( which he preserved equal in the Extremity of both Fortunes ) they made a common Disguise for their contrary Impalations, as they had occasion to miscall it, either an Easiness to be Inflicted by others, or Obstinacy to rule by his own Will. This temper of his was so admirable that neither the highest of Temptations, Adoration and Flattery, nor the lowest of Mifery Injuries the Insolency of Fools could move him. His Constancy to bis own Vertus, was no mean Cause of his undoing; for if he had not stated the Principles of Government upon unalterable Right, but could have shifted his Sails to catch the popular Air when it grew high; ( as his Enemies did ) they had never undone him with empty Pretendings to what he really meant. Wisdom and Knowledge were of so Noble a Capacity, that nothing lay so much out of his reach as the profound Wickedness of his Enemies, which his own Goodness would neither give kim leave to suspect; nor his Experience Power to difcover; for they managed the whole Courfe of his Ruin, as they did the last Act of it, in Disquise; else so great a Wit as his hadnever been circumvented by the Treachery & Cheat, rather than Policy of ignorant Persons. All be marted of a K. was, he knew not how to diffemble, unless concealing his own Perfections were for in which he only deceiv'd his People, who ne'er understood his great Abilities till their Sins were punished with the loss of him. In his Death he not only out-did the high Resolutions of the ancient Romans, but the humble Patience of the primitive Martyrs; so far from the Manner of Tyrants, who use to wish all the World their Funeral Pile, that he employ'd the Care of his last Thoughts about the Sasety of his very Enemies, and died not only consulting, but praying for the Preservation of those whom he knew resolv'd to have none, but what was built upon their own destruction.

d

n

d,

7.

279

to r-

7.

d-

be

10 be

is ey

lis

ch

dif-

18t

be

K.

in eir

ar-

All this, and much more, the Juffice of Posterity (when Faction and Concernment are removed) will acknowledge to be more true of him. than any of those Slanders you (or the mad Wickedness of this Age ) have thrown upon his Memory, which shall then, like Dung cast at the Roots of Trees, but make his Name more Flourishing and Glorious; when all those Monuments of Infamy you have raised; shall become the Trophics of his Vertue, and your own Shame. In the mean time, as your own Conscience, or the Expectation of Divine Vengeance, shall call upon you, you will see what you have done, and find there is no Murther so horrid as that which is committed with the Sword of Justice; nor any Injustice so notorious as that which takes Advantage both of the first Silence of the Living, and that of the Dead : In this last, you have been very Sinful, and in accusing the Dead, have not beheaved your felf so like a Saint at the Day of Judgment, as the Devil, whose Office is to be Sollicitor-General in fuch Cases. I will not judge you. lest I sould do worse, imitate you : But certainly you will find it the worst kind of witchcraft, to raise the Devil by facrificing to your own Malice, especially to so bad a purpose as you have done, that you might invade the Judgment-Seat of Christ, and usurp his Jurisdiction before his coming, which you have presumed to do with more Rudeness than Hacket used, and less Formality in not sending your Fore-runner to Preclaim (in a Turnip Cart) your coming to Judgment. worst of all is, you seem to glory in your Sins, and affert the Martyrdom of your Wickedness for having supposed a possibility you may fall by the hands of Violence: You arm your felf with a forc'd Resolution. which you may be confident you will never have need of, for you have no Reason to think any Man can believe you have deserv'd a violent Death; no, you have deserv'd rather to live long, fo long till you fee your felf become the Controversie of wild-Beasts, and be fain to prove our Scar-crow. Unless you fall think it just, as you have been condemned out of your own Mouth, so you should fall by your own Hand. there was not a Hang-man bad enough for Judas, but himself, and when you shall think sit to do your self so much Right, you shall be your own Soothfayer, and fall by the Hand of a Raviliack, to whom with mre -Likeness compare your self, than to Honry the Fourth, for you are no . King. What Raviliack was is very well known; what you are I leave: to your own Confeience.

PRESBYTERIAN

Without Disguise :

OR, A

CHARACTER

5th to OrFiteA inick th

Presbyterian's Ways and Actions.

By Sar John Denham, Knight,

the same was the median of the day of the same of the Presbyter is fuch a Monft rous things That loves Democracy, and hates a King. For Royal Issue, never making Prayers, Since Kingdoms (as be thinks ) hould have no But stand Elective, that the Holy Grew May ( when their Zeal transports them ) chuse a New ; And is fo ftrongly grounded in Belief, That Antichrilt his Coming will be Brief. As he dares Iwear ( if he dares Iwear at all ) The Quakers are ordain'd to make him fall a From whence he grows impatient, and he fayt. The wifelt Counsels are but fond Delays. To hold him ling'ring in deluding Hope Elfe long e're this he had Jubdu'd the Pope, A Presbyeer is he, whole Heart doth hate

The Man (how good for re.) advanced in States.

And find his Ditease a Leproly.

21 VALTO

